OUR COLLABORATION WITH SHANE POWERS

Shane Powers is a man of many talents. In addition to developing artisan-made home accessories in exotic parts of the world like Nepal, he is a well-regarded prop stylist for magazines and has a masterful knack with botanicals. When we first discussed updating the indoor garden, naturally we turned to Shane. After much experimentation (he's a relentless perfectionist), he came to us with four groups of vessels, each designed with different functions in mind. These vessels were created for plants that require only water and air to grow, i.e. hardy specimens that even the most luckless indoor gardener can't kill.

LOURDES SANCHEZ

Lourdes Sanchez is a Cuban born artist and textile designer who grew up in Queens and New Jersey. She works in hand painted watercolor media. In 1983 during a stint at "a dreary receptionist job", Lourdes signed up for a night class at SVA in printed textile design. That class led to over 18 years designing prints for the fashion industry. In 2004, Lourdes took the plunge and opened her own design studio. Lourdes' imagery is often based on the natural world, industrial detritus, the longing and optimism of vintage prints, ancient tribal patterning and random stains and markings. She currently lives and works in Gowanus, Brooklyn with Moon Pie, a black Havanese that she rescued.

SHELLY GOLDBERG

Native New Yorker Shelly Goldberg is an alumnus of west elm. After earning a Masters in Textile Design at Central Saint Martins in London, Shelly began her career by creating prints for fashion houses before transitioning to home design. Shelly's rug designs are like "art for the floor." Her work is characterized by asymmetry and the innovative use of line and color. She often creates unique juxtapositions of pattern and texture by combining a contemporary design with a traditional construction method.

JEAN-PAUL PHILIPPE

John-Paul Philippe is a multi-talented painter and designer who divides his time between his Soho work studio, bucolic upstate home and roster of clients around the world. His distinctly modernist painting style put him on the map, and John Paul now references this clean, graphic style in projects as diverse as textile design, furniture design, murals, large scale sculpture and even a private chapel in the Dominican Republic.
